1. No flying or motor vehicle traffic was noticed at the Dresden-Klotzsche (N 52/F 29) airfield on [REDACTED]. A sentry wearing black-bordered, blue epaulets, guarded the flight control station, previously assigned to the civilian airport, in the southern section of the airfield. A closed and unguarded hangar was beside of the flight control station. The former military flight control station in the eastern section of the airfield was occupied by two Soviet Air Force sentries.

3. a. The sodded landing field inclined from south to north. No hard-surface runways were seen. Ten soldiers wearing blue service color were noticed at the southern flight control station on the tower of which an anemometer was installed. Four tank trucks whose numbers could not be determined were observed there.
- b. Two radio trucks were near the flight control station. One had the number 7-56-61 and the other (number not seen) had a 3-meter antenna rod with antennas leading to a window of the flight control station.

c. The sentries at the main guardhouse were also wearing blue epaulets.

e. Two roads in Weixdorf, adjacent to the airfield, were blocked by board fences. Local residents said that Soviet officers were to be quartered there.

The report confirms the previous assumption that no air unit is stationed in Dresden-Klotzsche. The mission of the air force ground unit stationed at the airfield is not known. [REDACTED] an MVD unit is allegedly also stationed there. This is confirmed by the motor vehicle number mentioned in para 3. The dog kennels apparently are also assigned to this unit.
